A World Apart

The story of Tanzania begins before there is a story to tell. It starts way back in time, when the distant ancestors of current local human populations were roaming the land. A roughly 1.7-million-year-old skull belongs to our early human ancestor, discovered in 1959 at Olduvai Gorge, one of the world’s greatest paleoanthropological sites. This vast natural wonder is just one of the many reasons the People of Tanzania have inspired awe for more than 5 million years. In contrast to the high-altitude mountains, the low-lying, expansive plains of the Serengeti are a vast and open landscape. This vastness plays a key role in making it the best chance to witness the Great Migration, the great wildebeest migration that was driven by a need to find life-sustaining water. The Serengeti region gained fame as the setting for both Out of Africa and the National Geographic documentary Wild. It is a place of diversity, with over 350 species of birds, 30 species of African antelope, 15 species of African savanna mammals. In total, over 220 species of mammals are found in Tanzania, including Africa’s largest elephant herds.

Embark on an exceptional journey amid the untamed beauty of Tanzania’s most prized wildlife reserves. Set out as the sun rises and descend into the verdant plains of Tarangire National Park, home to thousands of elephants and millions of birds. Study first-hand while walking on unpaved paths and/or uneven ground to see the local wildlife and their habitats. Embark on a lively farming community near Ngorongoro, where as many as 120 different tribes co-exist. Meet villagers and learn about their culture. Look forward to a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to get up close and personal with the five big cats - the lion, elephant, leopard, rhinoceros and Cape buffalo. After your game drive, savor a once-in-a-lifetime dining experience at a local Maasai homestead, where you will savor a delicious meal and a chance to interact with the Maasai people. The highlight, of course, is getting an up-close view of the world’s tallest and most awe-inspiring peak, Mt. Kilimanjaro. The mountain is a natural wonder and a true African adventure. You will benefit from the vast knowledge of your expert driver-guide while enjoying unobstructed game viewing and photo opportunities. Depending on the excursion, more leisurely alternatives may be available. Please call or visit our website to review the expectations.
